United Fund drive was authorized by the organization's trustees Monday night when it was reported the current campaign has reached the 80 per cent

The 12 community service agencies of the United Fund were given shares in an excess of $8,600 realized from last year's drive.

Richard Emmerling, president, explained the excess was the result of increased fulfillment of pledges and savings in campaign expenses.

Carl Werner, secretary, said the full degree of financial accomplishment of the drive cannot be detailed until the year is complete. Thus, it has not been until pledges were paid and expenses determined that the excess was fully known.

Odd Turn Of Events

One theme recurs time after time in battlefront dispatches from South Viet Nam.

Observers of the fighting are of one mind that the courage and tenacity of the Viet Cong troops are beyond description.

Like the Fuzzy-Wuzzy immortalized by Rudyard Kipling, the so-called Viet Cong guerrillas arrayed against South Vietnamese government troops command the respect of the soldiers who are trying to kill them.

Maj. Charles A. Beckwith, commander of the Special Forces camp at Pleime, which was under Viet Cong siege and barely survived despite large-scale rescue measures, told Charles Mohr of The New York Times, "They (the Viet Cong) are the finest soldiers I have ever seen in the world, except Americans.

Maj. Beckwith also said he wished he knew what the Viet Cong troops were being drugged with, "to make them fight like that." But in the context of his remarks it is clear he was not referring to literal drugging.

He was referring to motivation that causes the guerrillas in South Viet Nam to be superior in fighting ability to the government troops of whom the United States must rely to augment its own fighting forces.

This has been the problem of U. S. militarists advising South Viet Nam - how to fire up men supposed to be fighting for liberty, with U.S. government backing. When military relief finally reached Pleime, one of the first consequences was a rush by unwounded government soldiers to get aboard the rescue helicopters before their own wounded and the wounded U.S. advisers could be taken to safety.

In the course of trying to understand this most puzzling of recent wars, on-the-scene observers are trying to understand why the Viet Cong has the edge in fighting ability; why its troops are winning respect from U. S. fighting men than the government troops who are their allies.

Highest Of The Artists

Acknowledgements of the political professionalism of Lyndon Baines Johnson are threadbare. But his adroit handling of a sticky situation in New York City adds luster to his distinction as a master of the political art.

The problem was what to do about the Democratic candidate for New York mayor, Abraham D. Beame. Candidate Beame was running as the favorite of the bosses, whose other favorite is Robert Kennedy, their successful candidate for U. S. senator from New York State last

Aside from his backing and the certainty he would be amenable to the same politicians who are building a Democratic organization around Robert Kennedy, candidate Beame was not ideologically attractive to President Johnson.

Of the three candidates in the race, only one, John F. Lindsay, the Republican-Liberal candidate, is ideologically compatible with President

The third candidate, William F. Buckley Jr., running as an all-out conservative, has highlighted the fact that candidate Beame has nothing in his favor except his backing by the New York City bosses

But - candidate Beame is a Democrat In party politics, members of the party stand by one another, or incur the suspicion of disloyalty under fire. Would President Johnson endorse Beame, a candidate he couldn't admire? How would the master politician sidestep this dilemma?

Time wore on. Vice President Humphrey finally went to New York City and conveyed the President's regards. But Beame still hadn't been endorsed. Then at the last minute, Bill D. Moyers, the presidential press secretary, made it known that if Mr. Johnson lived in New York he would vote for Beame.

Beame and his followers were overcome with joy. Abraham Beame had been endorsed, they chortled. Who else could the head of the Democratic party vote for if not a Democratic candi-

President Johnson is believed to be resisting his younger daughter Luci's desire to get married at 18 and give up an education in nursing.

Bulb Planting Time

The lady I choose tulip bulbs with finally made up her mind and selected next April's eye-pleasers.

She never told me how many bulbs were in the box she kept pointing to as a reminder of a job to be done without fail before the weather turned bad. And that's why there are 30 bulbs left in the box today.

When planting day came, the areas in the flower garden that had no tulips in them were plotted for 100 additional bulbs. This had been the figure agreed on in preliminary conversations.

To stifle the mumbling and moaning that accompany all chores having to do with the good earth, the lady even bought me a bulb planter, which turned out to be the handiest thing since the round door knob.

You just keep ramming it into the ground and making neat, round holes, with the dirt being squeezed up like sausages by the downward pressure for each additional tulip hole. In no time at all, we had planted 50 bulbs, which we thought meant the job was half done.

The next 50 bulbs came harder than the first 50, because now we had to be careful to avoid places where tulips had been coming up before. This tulip-planting chore has been performed year in and year out for a long time. All that made it different this year was a larger num-to play the role of doting father with a marriageable daughter to take care of, and it is recalled that Mr. Truman had some rough He reacted to them roughly, too-so much so it is hard to recall now whether Mrs. Truman ever was heard from it all in those days.

Mr. Johnson has two daughters to cope with, and it could be they are much tougher than Congress. It will be safer to wait and see. Every father in the country could wish that education would take precedence over marriage in these cases. But every father in the country knows father Johnson has no better than a 50-50 chance to prevail, especially if his feeble power is arrayed against both daughter and mother.

By Truman Twill

It wasn't until 80 bulbs had been stuffed into those neat holes that suspicion of misinformation began to close in. Instead of a residue of 20-odd bulbs it looked like a residue of 80-odd bulbs. In short, the job was not nearing completion; it was only slightly more than half

Both time and space even ran out. It's a job for philosopher, not a weekend gardener.

Planting tulips is an act of faith. The job is done under adverse weather conditions, in circumstances that make it seem unlikely anything could turn out well.

But looking ahead to next April, a philosopher can believe in his heart that this is the way life is - a never-ending act of faith performed under adverse conditions, in circumstances that bode no good for the outcome. Yet, from these simple acts of faith have come all the beautiful consequences of human

Johnson's Actions Are Questioned

By David Lawrence

"Politics comes first, the public interest second" President Johnson didn't forget this slogan when the announcement was made in his behalf that he "strongly and enthusiastically" supported Abraham D. Beame, the Democratic candidate, in today's election for mayor of New York City. The people of the metropolis. however, after having witnessed in recent years one of the most flagrant examples of "boss rule" by any political party, should be permitted to have their own mayor chosen without dictation from the David Lawrence national administration in Washington.

Mr. Johnson's declaration, issued through his press secretary disavowed, of course, any intent to "dictate to others how to vote," but went on nevertheless to warn the people of New York City by implication that they couldn't expect special favors in the disbursement of federal funds unless they elect the Democratic nominee for mayor.

The President broadcast a pledge that, if Mr. Beame became the winner, the "people of New York would have the utmost cooperation and attention on the challenges they face as residents of the nation's largest city."

COULDN'T THIS be construed to mean that, if the Republican nominee, John Lindsay were elected, the people of New York would be given scant attention and much less than the "utmost cooperation" to which they are entitled? Presumably their tax money, as well as the funds contributed by other citizens throughout the country, is supposed to be used on a fair and equitable basis in the public interest.

The apologists for the President's action are saying that he couldn't have done otherwise than to endorse the Democratic nominee for mayor. If he had not done so, it's contended, he would have created a rift between himself and the biggest political organization in a state with the larget electoral vote in the countrysomething apparently essential to the President, who wants to be re-elected in 1968.

It's argued also that candidates for mayor in other large cities dominated by Democratic bosses and by closely controlled organizations might have been alienated.

A President, therefore, may find hereafter that for selfish reasons the techniques of political chicanery will become more and more important inasmuch as the "one man, one vote" reappointment decision of the Supreme Court of the United States now gives the big city machines unprecedented powers in affecting the outcome of elections on the city, county and state level, as well as in national contests. This will be a factor of increasing influence in the future because citizens no longer need to be able to read and write English or any other language as a qualification for voting.

IT CERTAINLY isn't in the public interest for a president of the United States to line himself up with corrupt institutions even if they are in his own political party. Party loyalty does not require anybody to condone misdeeds and scandals. Indeed, the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, himself a practical politician of considerable skill, rose above such considerations in his own state when he came out in 1941 for Mayor LaGuardia, a Republican who had been nominated for a third term on a fusion ticket, such as Mr. Lindsay is heading this year.

Mr. Roosevelt stressed the point that Mayor LaGuardia had given New York City "the most honest and. I believe, the most efficient municipal government within my recollection," and then added:

"The fact that the city's election has no relationship to national policies, but is confined to civic policies, is attested by the fact that the Constitution of the state provides for the municipal election in off years when neither a governor nor a president nor members of the House of Representatives or Senate of the United States are to be chosen. Federal funds were as important to local political interests in those days as they are now. President Johnson's approval of their use as a means of luring votes to the Democratic party is a disappointment to those people who still believe in honest government and integrity in public affairs.

Viet Supply Lines Threatened

A handful of the "in-group" of America's most knowledgeable manpower experts have been told that within less than a year there will be half a million U.S. troops in South Viet Nam. Ths word comes from the highest Pentagon

We'll get them there - if we can. The logic of the logistics of shipping so large an army and the support materiel for fighting men calls for a huge armada of freighters. The U. S. does not have such a cargo-carrying fleet. We are short of ships! We have long run out of what was available. We have sold some of the boneyard vessels as scrap to Japan and West European nations. GRIM RESULT is that the government now is permitting American lines to charter foreign freighters But the foreign craft are not ghost ships. They need flesh and blood crews. However, foreign seamen's unions everywhere are quietly telling their seagoing members they need not sign on for the runs into South Vietnamese ports.

This is the word constantly received by such maritime union leaders as Joe Curran. National Maritime Union president, and Paul Hall, leader of the Seafarers' International Union

The foreign unions certainly are not all Communist-controlled. Some are neutral. Some are Socialist. Some are Social Democratic. But their members just don't want to get shot at. They loved the dollars in peacetime but now don't want to take the hot with the cold.

One of Mr. Curran's aides reveals that even the non-Communist Japanese seamen are deserting the U.S. I've just confirmed his findings in trans-oceanic telephone conversations with authoritative Japanese sources in Tokyo.

Recently, for example, the States Marine Lines chartered eight vessels from four Japanese shipowners. The American company needed the craft for quick trips into South Viet Nam over a three to six months stretch.

THESE NIPPONESE craft are manned by Japanese crews who belong to the All-Japan Seamen's Union. The seamen, in turn, are affiliated with the DOMEI, a national labor federation of no particular political color.

However, the DOMEI outfit demanded that the four Japanese shipowners refuse to do business with States Marine if the craft were bound for the fighting area. "If not, the seamen on board would walk off the ships," said DOMEI officials

The All-Japan Seamen's Union then sent a committee to the Ministry of Transport. The government officials soothed the seamen by telling them that they would not be forced to go.

THESE JAPANESE sailors have lived well on this extraordinary pav made while they repatriated Japanese soldiers from the old fighting fronts — as well as carrying relief cargoes for Japan itself.

Now many of them have quit. Their union brothers have called those who stayed on "war collaborators.

Thus the U.S. has been forced to seek unskilled civilians. Any other description of some of those now signing on would not fit into a family newspaper.

Joe Curran's attitude is that we have no one but ourselves to blame. This is our fight and we long ago should have put American seamen to work, as well as putting our shinvards into action building a modern merchant fleet.

Now most of what we have are slow boats to Indochina - and not enough of those either.

Students Stress Need For Issue

We would like to point out to you and your readers some facts about the educational system in this state with which we are vitally concerned. This is an important matter to us because we believe our futures, indeed our entire lives, are determined by the education we

Issue 1 is a plan to revise the state's School Foundation Statute so that an additional $116 million dollars in state funds will be returned to the local school districts in the form of increased state support for elementary and high school education.

At the present time, local taxpayers are doing their share, but the state is not. Ohio is the sixth wealthiest state. Yet 45 states have higher revenues and 48 states spend more per state resident for roads, state institutions and schools. The percentage of the total cost of education in Ohio has gone down for the state while local support has gone up. In 1950 the state was paying 40 per cent and now is paying only 30 per cent. This is much below the national average percentage paid by state governments. Ohio is clearly not doing its part in education, but is letting local districts struggle to do it as best they can.

Because Beaver Local School District does not include a large population nor any industry, the property owners must pay the cost. But there is a limit to what home owners can be expected to pay and the cost of education is continually rising. Our school administrators were not able to purchase as many new texts as they would have liked to because of insufficient funds. We feel the library facilities are inadequate. Our teachers are paid less than the state ave age. Issue I would help equalize salaries so Beaver Local could compete better in attracting new teachers.

If Issue 1 is passed, Beaver Local will begin receiving aid this January. Poorer districts will receive more than others and extra funds will be collected for low income families. Beaver Local will receive almost $120,000 additional funds annually. This is equivalent to more than

The money will be collected in a way that does not penalize property owners or any other group. Sales tax will be increased from 3 per cent to 4 per cent. Low income families will not be hurt because in Ohio basic necessities such as food are tax exempt anyway.

Issue I was placed on the ballot through initiative petition. Qualified voters signed these petitions realizing the need of getting the state to pay more of the cost of education. We hope you do, too. For our sakes, please, vote Yes. STUDENT COUNCIL

Writer Asks Vote For Issue 1

In view of the actions taken by some organizations in the past week in various places, I feel that some remarks are in order. It has become apparent that people either can't read or don't want to read.

The secretary of state sent out a leaflet several weeks ago which presented the details of Issue I. This paper stated positively that the sales tax will be increased from three to four cents. The people who originated this bill, after consulting a tax expert from Miami (Ohio) University, decided this would be the fairest way of raising the needed money. Since food, drugs and household services are exempt from sales tax, such an increase would not work too much hardship on families of low income. For the same reason, I don't believe that the business of retail merchants is going to suffer; families who can afford to buy taxable goods, such as cars, clothing, etc., will probably still buy.

I concede that the bill does not state that the money will be used only for education. However, the legislature in the past has always followed the mandates of the people in carrying out any laws. Surely the large number of voters who signed the netitions necessary to get the PEP bill on the ballot have shown our rep-recentatives that this is what we want. Finally, this money will be used to improve the quality of education throughout the state. If some of the merchants would spend one day visiting the schools in our district, they would agree such action is necessary. How would you or they teach a class of 35 below average students some English without books? What would they do with seven classes averaging 30 students per day in art without an enormous amount of supplies? I could cite other instances of lacks but I hope this is enough.

We hope some readers will think again before they cast their vote next Tuesday and will vote for Issue I.

"Gee, Mom! Our GAS dryer's great! My jacket's dry already!"

That damp parka (scarves and mittens, too) all warm and dry in just about the time it takes to finish a snack. That's because things dry faster in a Gas dryer. Softer, too. Towels are fluffed dry, so they seem thicker and thirstier. Jerseys and playclothes are smooth and wrinkle-free, ready to wear without ironing. And think of all the precious hours you save when you don't have to wait for the weather... or hang up and take down long lines of clothes

All this convenience costs so little with a Gas dryer. About a penny's worth of Gas dries a whole load. Why not please your family and yourself? See your Gas appliance dealer today. Let him show you the handsome, advanced styling of today's Gas drivers.

For drying, Gas makes the big difference ... costs less, too!

Dries a full load for about a penny's worth of Gas.

A Junior Editors Quiz About-EARTH'S SIZE

QUESTION: How far it around the earth and what is inside?

ANSWER: If you could slip a huge tape measure around the earth as in our picture, you would find it to measure 24,902 miles. This outside measure is Earth's circumference. It has another measurement, the diameter, which is straight through at the widest part. This is 7,927 miles from one spot on the equator to another on the opposite side. However, from one pole to another would be only 7,900 miles, showing that Earth is slightly flattened at the poles.

The earth is a very compact body, mostly of rock, which would be found to be hotter if you burrowed far down. A solid inner core, composed of nickel and iron (1) is thought to lie at the center, about 1,630 miles across. Above this rests the outer core (2) of heavy heated rock, probably in a plastic or flowing state. The mantle (3) of heavy rock which may move under pressure, rests upon this. Finally comes the outer shell (4) about 20 miles thick, which contains the seas and continents. Below the sea the rock is mostly basalt, but the very outer layer composing the continents is largely granite, with soil created by the action of water and air.

FOR YOU TO DO: It is interesting to compare the sizes of the various planets in our solar system. We show one smaller than Earth and another which is larger. Find out about one which is so close to Earth's size that it is almost a twin.

Theda O. Slater of Chicago, Ill., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.
